Many of today's technology development projects are transitioning to Agile methodologies to reduce time to market, increase productivity, improve quality, and reduce costs

AGILE

Illumination Works' (ILW) philosophy on Agile is one size does not fit all. Rather than force-fitting our customers into a single methodology, our certified Agile practitioners work with each customer individually to understand their unique needs, vision, and goals. We have proven experience with a variety of agile delivery approaches and can seamlessly integrate our delivery methodology into your preferred execution model. Agile development provides rapid, incremental delivery, enabling early realization of benefits with improved quality due to regular product inspection as development occurs. Our technologists support a wide range of Agile projects ranging from complex big data development using a scaled Agile framework to integrating Agile principles into a traditional methodology and providing Agile coaching and training.

✓ We know Agile ILW has deep and proven expertise in successfully executing a wide range of development efforts with an Agile methodology

✓ We know Scaled Agile We understand the intricacies of scaling Agile across teams and leverage our certified professionals to guide Agile development efforts and build organic expertise

✓ We have Certified Trainers ILW certified trainers can customize a training program to meet your needs and ensure consistent application of Agile on projects
